Careless Republican Party
No Heavy Breakfast
Think of These 48
Ignorance Sees Devils

By Arthur Brisbane

What do managers of the Republican party think what will happen at the November election, if they let the coal and railroad strikes "drift along"?

Do they doubt that the vote cast will wash them up, and set them trying to save themselves for 1924?

Why don't they do something now? It is just as easy to wait. Corporation gentlemen, with strings on the administration, will hold these strings just as tight a month hence as they do today.

Henry Ford throws interesting light on the situation. He says that "coal breakers" have plenty of coal. If he cared to pay the price, could buy enough coal to cover a treasure lot as high as he chose. The plan of coal owners, according to Ford, is to break down the unions, and let the public pay the cost of stopping the mines by paying two or three prices for coal. He is now loaded with offers of coal at prices from 100 to 200 paid up. That ought to interest the administration.

It interests the people that they soon be voting.

Some doctors, of whom many know very little, advise the world that men should eat a heavy breakfast. Mental work, they say, cannot be done efficiently otherwise.

There have been some efficient mental workers in France, some of them ever as a heavy breakfast. Except for a day later, giving out enormous quantities of muscular energy, a heavy meal in the morning is a stupid and harmful.

You eat to REPLACE things you need. You don't load on food as a ship loads on coal, to be used as you go along.

Sensible men, especially those that work with their brains and nerves, business men and others, eat as little as possible during the hours of work. In the evening when work is over, eat one hour before you eat anything. Then eat as moderately as self control permits. And wait two hours before going to sleep. Real and complete digestion occurs during sleep and at no other time.

If all the things the average doctor does not know about were put in one volume, it would be a big book. You realize that when you see the way patients are fed following a serious surgical operation. If ignorance were a crime, some doctors would be locked up.

While you discuss lack of coal this winter, trains are delayed and other trifling difficulties, you may find comfort in thinking of a gold mine. Two hundred miners, now trapped 4,200 feet below the surface in the Argo mine, near Jackson, California. The men were trapped by a fire, which they cannot come up. The fire, however, cannot go down to them. They are in the dark, wondering how long their supply of air will last, whether lack of air or the fire will kill them.

Men are struggling desperately but hopelessly to save their lives. Work in mines is not a pleasant occupation. Those that seek to destroy mining are out of luck to the lowest level do not seem to appreciate it.

Captain MacMillan and Lieutenant Mulline, trying to fly around the world, for the first time, encountered two things, equally dangerous, sharks and human ignorance. MacMillan cables from India a description of the sharks, and of natives that pained in their dele hosts and would not go near them, latter. Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Ponzi Confers With Allen

WIZARD AT STAGE HOUSE

Inspects Mass of Papers at Lawyer's Office, Then Returns to Plymouth

Charles Ponzi, whose visit to the courthouse yesterday aroused considerable speculation, conferred with Attorney-General Allen in a personally requested interview today.

The attorney general refused to make public the nature of the conference, which was brief, but said the matter would be turned over to Ponzi's trustees to handle.

It was reported in the office of Clerk of Courts Manning that he was willing to tell all he knew regarding the connection of others with his affairs.

Accompanied by Sheriff Blake of Plymouth County, the former financial juggler arrived at the attorney general's office yesterday.

He sent in his name, requesting an interview with Mr. Allen, who was then in a conference.

Ponzi was forced to wait for some time. Then, instead of having the person at large from Plymouth into his private office, the attorney general went out to the general office where his visitors wait.

Mr. Allen and Sheriff Blake shook hands, but there was no cordiality between Ponzi and the Attorney-General. Ponzi asked for a few words in private and the two stepped to a corner of the outer office. Ponzi talked earnestly and rapidly, while Mr. Allen listened.

Later the Attorney-General made the following statement:

"The matter on which he desired to confer with me has been turned over to me to his trustees in bankruptcy."

HE WENT FOR SOME TIME.

It is understood the conference had to do with the recovery of money which the trustees have been unable to reach. It is said Ponzi has obtained consent from certain persons who benefited largely by his Ponzi scheme, but who failed to come to his aid after he got into difficulties.

Hereafter he has shown no desire to help the authorities in clearing up his tangled affairs, although at the time of his arrest he boasted of being a correspondent, having been employed stationery with the name, Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Canada's Dollar Touches Par in New York

New York, Aug. 30.—The Canadian dollar touched par today for the first time since August, 1915.

The Canadian discount rate has been steadily decreasing for two months because of the improved trade balance. This is accounted for in part by extensive American purchases of Canadian wheat and the virtual shutting off of coal shipments to Canada because of strikes.

Portland, Me., Aug. 30.—Rose Galli, nineteen years old, was shot to death in the Portland public market on Federal street today by a rejected suitor, Ernesto Voldi.

The public market is an open space where farmers bring their produce to Portland buyers and is in the heart of the city, not more than 100 yards from police headquarters.

The girl had made some purchases of vegetables and fruit and was returning to her home at No. 92 Federal street, a short distance away.

Suddenly Voldi stepped from behind a tree and fired five shots in rapid succession at the girl, three of which took effect in her body.

Voldi attempted to run away, but Percy Littlefield of Hollis Center, who was selling truck from his wagon near the scene of the shooting, seized him, took away his revolver and held him until the police arrived.

Wild excitement in the Italian colony followed the shooting, and threats of lynching were heard.

Chief Watta, fearing that serious trouble would occur if the mob found a determined leader, called out the police reserves and a score of carabinieri are now in the district, keeping the crowds in motion.

Chief Watta said today that the murdered girl had appealed to him some time ago for protection against her violent admirer. "That's no kind of a name to call a lady," declared the chief. "Don't do it again. She came for assault and battery against Mrs. Fraser's friend."

Miss Dabney Renowned as a Singer in Society, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.
Mrs. George von L. Meyer, Jr.
Mrs. Nevil Dabney.
Miss Suzanne Dabney.

JUST about a year ago Miss Suzanne Dabney made her debut as a singer on the professional stage, though she had for several seasons been appearing as a most accomplished amateur. It was last summer, in the Building of Fine Arts at Bar Harbor, Me., that the debut took place, and the fashionable throng attending the affair accorded it a tremendous success. Now the loveliness of Miss Dabney's voice is known far and wide, and a list of the six Boston society women devoted the most to the music would be quite incomplete without her.

Speaking of Bar Harbor, I understand that Miss Dabney is to have shortly for a few weeks' stay at the famous Maine resort, which for so many years was noted as a gathering place for diplomats during the summer months. Both the artist and her mother, Mrs. Walter Dabney, have a number of years been leaders of the Boston colony at Bar Harbor. I am told that Mrs. Dabney will return to the Hotel Somerset, where she and her daughter make their winter home, as soon as the latter leaves for her sojourn in the Fine Arts State.

LONG before Miss Dabney appeared as a professional, the Vincent Club girl saw to it that her rich soprano voice helped make a success of several shows given by the club.

For instance, the Vincettes presented "Hello, Frisco," which gave her the opportunity of singing some very delightful Chinese songs. It was in "Hello, Frisco," you may remember, that there was such a happy career song which was a part of the engagement dinner some of the last and every turn of the cabaret show had to be repeated again and again. There was a "Temptation Melody," a "Two in One," and a "Baked Bean Rag," the latter number done by the octette, which is always a peppy group.

She was only last week, by the way, that Miss Dabney gave a recital at the Nabant Town Hall for which a goodly portion of the North Shore smart set turned out. The artist, who is a stately brunette, was most enthusiastically received by a floral tribute. She made a winning picture in her gown of black satin with silver embroidery and touches of green chiffon, with a head of brilliant gleaming in her dark hair.

The concert was in charge of Mrs. Archibald Blanchard, Mrs. Thomas Molloy, Mrs. and Mrs. Freeman Allen. The Misses Mary Otis and Sally Chabot assisted.

INNOVATIONS of all sorts seem to be quite in the order of things at the exclusive Myrtle Hunt Club. Another feature of the house and polo games to be held at the club in the near future is the general dancing which will be held at the clubhouse in the evening.

Among those on the committee of arrangements for the whole affair are Mr. Worthington, James W. Appleton, Frederick J. Allen, Freddie Ayer, Jr., Ellis Drexel and Neil Riker—all of them noted sportsmen along the Shore.

THE players from the Playhouse-on-the-Moors have been very much "on the job" this summer, and residents along the North Shore have come to regard any performance given by these actors as something distinctly worth while attending.

Tomorrow evening players are giving a performance at the Ipswich residence of the Haines Howes Proctors in aid of the Benjamin Siskiey Cable Memorial Hospital of Ipswich. Tickets are on sale at the home of Mrs. Charles Morgan Wood at Ipswich and at the Playhouse in East Gloucester.

Some of the young girls who are so much at the affair are the Misses Nancy Caragide, Sybil Appleton, Sue Wood, Betty Forrest, Polly and Esther Proctor and Mrs. Tom Rike (Elizabeth Lyman).

MR. and MRS. THOMAS PRINCE BEAL, whose Beverly Cove estate is known as "Evergreen," gave a tea last week in honor of Miss Beatrice Starr, the fiancée of their son, William DeFord Beal. The engagement of the young couple was announced in July, and the wedding, I understand, is to take place in November.

Among the pourers at the tea was Mrs. Tom Beal, Jr. (May Morgan) whose marriage to the older son of the house took place just about a year ago. It is interesting to note, by the way, that the bride was a daughter of Mrs. Tom Beal, Jr. (May Morgan) from other cities. Mrs. Tom Beal, Jr. lived formerly in New York and Shubertville, Va. while Miss Starr hails from New York and Kingsland, Conn. The bride, who is white, has now returned. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Starr.

BONUS VICTORY CERTAIN SENATE

Washington, Aug. 29.—As passage of the soldiers' bonus bill by the Senate today was considered probable, Republican and Democratic leaders supporting it expressed the belief that whatever objection President Harding had to it would be set by adoption of the House amendment providing that interest received on the foreign debt to the United States be used to compensate the bonus claimants.

The adoption of the House amendment would permit the bonus claimants to receive interest on the foreign debt in the West and South would also be helpful, the supporters thought, in avoiding the danger of a Presidential veto which anti-bonus Senators asserted was impending.

Passage of the bill by a majority sufficient to convince the President that sentiment in the Senate is overwhelmingly in his favor was confidently predicted.

Blaise Coming Back

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 29.—Col. L. Blaise, who kept South Carolina in the newspapers when he was governor of this State, is coming back. Blaise returns early today from the State primary indicate that Blaise will lead his chief opponent in the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by a small margin.

TECH STUDENT HAS 13 HIDDEN TEETH WHERE ONE SHOULD BE

THIS CHAP HAD MORE TEETH THAN A FINE
Tooth Comb! Augustus Swinton, a Tech student, complained to his dentist, Dr. Benjamin Daniels of No. 483 Beacon street, of a pain in his jaw. The dentist took an X-ray and this is what he found: A missing front upper tooth hidden in the bone and seven other teeth, together with a clump of five more. All the teeth were around the hidden large tooth. Photo shows Dr. Daniels, and, below, the extraordinary teeth.

NEW ENGLAND FACES WORST HARD COAL FAMINE

ONE WEEK SUPPLY ON HAND

Shipments of Soft Coal Expected to Avert Crisis During Winter Months Ahead

Less than a week, the entire available supply of anthracite coal in Massachusetts will be exhausted and New England will face the usual desperate coal famine of its history.

Reports from the fuel administrator's office today place the supply at 10,000 tons in the State. Massachusetts uses nearly 50,000 a month.

Even a settlement of the strike and a resumption of mining will bring scant relief to New England this winter, for the anthracite coal is conserved. The entire supply of the country is in a state of shortage and it is not until the winter months that the situation is expected to become normal.

Large quantities of anthracite, coming of schools, or other small amounts, are sent, shipments of soft coal have begun to appear in the market, but the quantities are so small that the situation is expected to remain normal.

The absolute use of anthracite for the present, and right away in the case of the weather, by the fortunate enough to have it, and the use of bituminous coal by householders, is the only solution of the difficulty that the fuel administrator has been able to devise.

Even should the strike end and production be resumed, the five months of non-production, have left such a gap that it would be impossible to fill it before the winter is over.

Every agency of our office and every effort will be at once turned to the problem of obtaining the fuel in the case of soft coal, as the only solution.

With the resumption of operations, upon the settlement of the bituminous strike, the situation will be improved, but the shortage of soft coal from British mines, arriving in port every day so that there will be a sufficient amount to care for all ordinary needs.

MRS. JUANITA MAFRA.

Four months ago seventeen-year-old Juanita Merrick and Frank Mafra, both of Favers, signed away for a day and were secretly married. They returned to their respective homes without revealing that they were husband and wife until yesterday.

Today they are spending winter in Favers, Mass., with a parental blessing, on a honeymoon.

The young couple were married in Manchester, N. H., on May 17. They were gone only a short time and friends and relatives knew nothing of the wedding.

Mrs. Mafra is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Merrick of No. 42 Indian street, Favers. The groom's home is at No. 83 Florence street, Favers.

306 Died as Ship Sank in 5 Minutes

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 30 (By the Associated Press).—Latest wireless reports from the cruiser Chacabuco are to the effect that only thirty persons of the 322 aboard the steamship ita were rescued when the vessel sank off Coquimbo.

The Chacabuco is rushing the survivors to Coquimbo.

It is understood the ita was carrying a large number of laborers and their families to the nitrate plants of Chuquibambilla. The other passengers were traders.

The ita was caught in a severe gale at 230 o'clock in the afternoon, and was crushed by the heavy seas due to her overloaded condition, wire reports said.

The ita went down in five minutes, at a point between the islands of Palmar and Choros, thirty-five miles from Coquimbo.

Montreal, Aug. 29.—Twenty of Montreal's smartest and prettiest girls, rebelling against the attempt of style creators to toilet long skirts on women, have formed a "No-Longer Skirt League."

ROSENBERG GUEST AT BANQUET

James N. Rosenberg, director-general of the European work of the Jewish Relief Fund, will be the principal speaker at a banquet and conference tonight at the Elmhurst club, No. 214 Huntington avenue.

Representatives from every city and town in New England are expected. The Jewish Relief Fund raised $150,000, which was $1,000,000 in excess of the mark aimed at. New England and Massachusetts set aside their quotas.

Mr. Rosenberg, who has just returned from a year's visit to Europe, will tell the conference just how the money collected is to be spent, and how the Jewish committee is co-operating with the American Relief Council headed by Herbert Hoover.

Dr. E. Kewstein of Filmore's, chairman of the New England campaign, will be toastmaster.

100 HOMELESS IN BEAVERDALE, PA.

Beaverdale, Pa., Aug. 29.—Twelve families fled from their homes here today when fire swept two town blocks, destroying a dozen stores and dwellings and causing an estimated loss of $100,000. Over 100 people are homeless. Firemen from nearby towns were summoned.

FINAL DECISION IN HARD COAL WAR PLANNED

Washington, Aug. 30.—The anthracite coal strike situation took another turn toward settlement today when leaders of both sides agreed at a conference here to present to the anthracite operators and the general coal committee of the miners' union for "final decision" settlement proposals drafted by Senators Pepper and Reed of Pennsylvania.

Disparate meetings of the two groups will be convened as early as possible. It was agreed that terms of the proposals should be withheld pending the meetings. These were understood, however, to provide for the immediate return to work of the miners on the basis of the wage scale and working conditions in effect last April 1, with the operators withdrawing their insistence that arbitration be adopted as a method of fixing future wage scales.

FIVE BIG EVENTS ON CARD FOR HORSE LOVERS AT READVILLE

PETER PATER TO REPEAT RECORD

READVILLE SELECTIONS

The Oakhurst Farm—Brandywine, Revna Dillon, Harvest Todd.
The Massachusetts—Bill Sharen, Peter Pluto, Lee Tide.
The Pilgrim—Abbedale, Almsden Onward, The Sherwood.
2:07 Trot—McGregor the Great, Mainick, Peter Pater.

By NICK FLATLEY

Even time, as they call two minutes at the track, was due to be shattered late afternoon at Readville when Peter Manning, 1:57 1/2, was sent out to race a mile against the watch. This wonderful trotter is in perfect form, and the track was shining fast for him, dried out perfectly by yesterday's sunshine and the morning breeze.

Peter's effort was the spectacular part of another great day's racing, but the real interest was in the three stakes, the Oakhurst Farm, for two-year-olds, the Massachusetts, for 2:12 trotters and the Pilgrim, for 2:11 pacers.

Brandywine, one of the year's great two-year-olds, a real rival of Thompson Dillon, winner of yesterday's Futurity, was rated best in the juvenile event, but Revna Dillon, Harvest Todd and several other crack youngsters were fitted to give him plenty of competition.

The Massachusetts, the richest purse of the meeting, with a value of $1,000, attracted a fine field, Bill Sharen favored to lead the parade, Abbedale was a hot favorite in the Pilgrim, but Almsden Onward and The Sherwood were a couple of pacers who figured to make a real race out of it.

McGregor the Great was a starter in the 2:07 trot, the fastest event carded, for with Mainick, Peter Pater and other good ones in the scramble, real time was due to hang on the pagoda across from the judges' stand.

Small fields, evenly matched, make for better racing than the welter odds numbers and do away with the dragging delays while the horses are waiting. This, by the way, seems to be the only spot in this harness game that one could pick to criticize. But even that's forgotten, once they get "go" and flash past and away for the first turn.

The bird who called horses racing the sport of kings was overlooking a bet, or things have changed since the old days. There's no more betting, at least, out at the Readville track, and after you've watched the events and then the flying equines, pursued by a cloud of dust, which stirred the vast oval, you would blame anybody for ducking out and playing the Hyde Park district.

These little August afternoons, the opening was a grand and howling success. In the first place, the long-stay sun was on the job, and beamed gloriously down on the track and the unjust alkies. The track dried out wonderfully, an augury of splendid time today, when the stake chasers swing into action.

Little Margaret Dillon was the most popular victory in the free-for-all race, but the little boy wonder had to go, three beats to pull down the purse. Tommy Murphy started his drive too late in the second spin, and Nemo Jay jumped Jimmy MacKerion into the lead, but left him there in a slashing tuck to the wire.

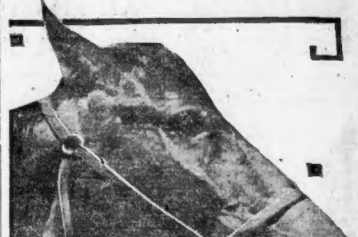

Mr. Murphy wasn't taking any chances in the last circle. He sent the mare out in front at the start, raced her along for a slow half mile, then cut loose. The city champion responded to a drive and flitted like a shadow past the stands, a whole length in front of the McKerion riding. That last half was trotted off in 58 1/2 seconds, which is real traveling for the third heat on a rather heavy track.

Dillon Victory Brings Real Joy to Crowd

That Dillon victory brought real joy to the crowd, the more because the sunshine was here to fight all the way for the glory. She won the first heat in 2:04 1/2, without being extended greatly. The McKerion victory was the fastest mile of the day, 2:04 1/2, and showed all the experts that the whippersnapper Peter Manning and the champs who chase of Pater time, will be able to shade the magic two in nine mark.

Here crowds are always disappointed. You could tell. They found it in the midst of the Sahara. The boys who follow the races as business, proposition or a speculative matter, affect the rather ruddy color of century-cured leather, the gleaming scarf, the sparkling

Lee Anderson One Fighter Who Does Not Pick 'Em

"Who do you want to fight?" Matchmaker Tom Goodwin of the Arena Club asked Lee Anderson, the man who knocked out Kid Norfolk, Willie Meahan and Gusboat Smith.

"I'm not fussy," replied the great colored light-heavyweight. "Just go get some tough baby. Harry Greb, Billy Miske or Bill Brennan would do as a starter. I bet the promoters do the picking. I just do the fighting."

Which is something new in the light game.

PADDOCK'S NAME NOT ON LIST

Charles W. Paddock, Los Angeles A. C. sprinting star, who holds more than half a dozen sprint records, will not come East to defend his 100-yard and 220-yard titles in the National A. A. U. track and field championships which will be held on September 8, 9 and 10 at Wausau Park, Newark, N. J.

PAL REED SIGNS TO MEET LOU BOGASH

The Commercial A. C. will open its Fall boxing campaign at Mechanics Building, September 8. Louis Bogash of Bridgeport will have Pal Reed as an opponent in the feature bout.

Reed has been training diligently. Only recently he has been working at the Harvard Summer School and when school opens in the Fall he will become boxing instructor at St. Mark's School, South Boston.

Frank Merza, of South Boston, who has won thirty-four bouts by knockout route, will take on Phil Christie of Roxbury, while Tony Kelly of Lawrence will clash with Patsy Bogash, a brother of Louis.

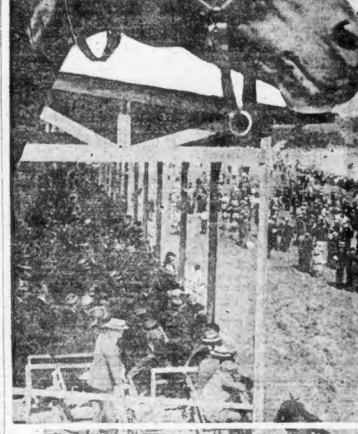

Johnny Shephard of Woburn will also be seen on the card with the best opponent available.

BOWLING STARS TO CLASH AT NAHANT

A bowling match which is sure to attract considerable attention will be held at Nahant when Paul Poshler, teamed with Miss Billie Shea of Nahant, meets Harry King, teamed with Miss Vivia Workman. The latter is the woman's champion of New England. They will roll nineteen frames of duck-pin.

SUSPEND ROY MOORE AND YOUNG MONTREAL

New York, Aug. 26.—The New York Boxing Commission suspended Roy Moore, 31, Paul Hamilton, 21, and Young Montreal of Providence, for a period of sixty days as a result of their default in their contract at the Katonah Athletic Club in Albany on August 21.

READVILLE SIDELIGHTS

"They say it was the biggest first—forgetten the name of 'Acoute.' day ever."

The finish of the second heat in the 2:16 trot was a gem.

Under the shade of the old maple trees at the head of the stretch the veterans of other days sat and talked of some of the good races of the past.

What a shout went up when Nat Ray, the old time steppeback jockey, led Margaret Dillon a nose at the wire, the second heat of the two-to-all race with Jimmy McKeron last half in 52 1/2 seconds.

Sam and George Crow were on deck as usual for the opening spin.

Standish Wilcox, the secretary to Mayor Curley, was kept busy renewing old acquaintances among his friends of former days.

Those few days from the pop of his dearest friends cover everything.

"And so when springtime birds come flocking back to their haunts and homes they live in other years."

We long to be better at the trotting track.

And, worship at the shrine of "Massa Geese."

Deal kindly with us here below. Don't give us phase just because "Buckeye" Pop, we love you so, George Hall and party occupied box 11.

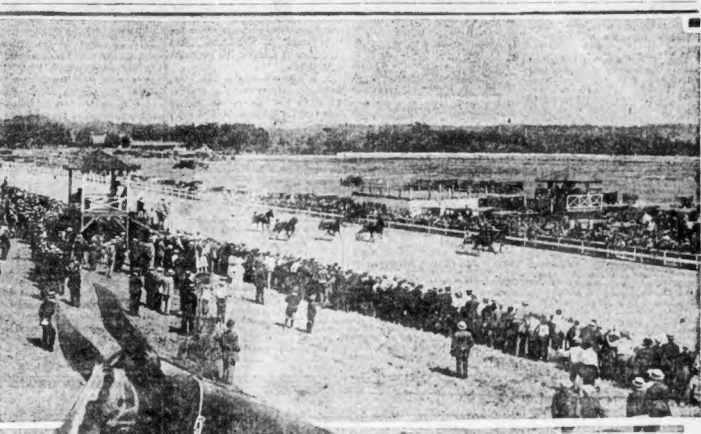

Yes, my son, there are several "countdowns" from the West on hand but their principal occupation during the afternoon was the enjoyment of a quiet "stake" between Reeds. "Stake" is Spanish for sleep.

Chauncy Sears, who was much in the limelight a few seasons back with that grand trotter Mary Purney and other stellar equine artists, enjoyed the sport immensely from a point of vantage in box 33 with a party of friends.

Fred Morrell telegraphed Lester Dore that he would have to postpone his trip to Maine. Fred has not missed a "big time" opening in years, and says the too late to break a rail of long standing now.

F. H. Piper looked supremely happy in box 34 and why not? He never was an absentee from the box during the afternoon. Looks like new record for him.

Our old friend "Dave" Mulvaney was under the time with the rest of "Grand" boys. He has not as yet little-brother had the sign.

HAMBONE KELLY'S PUNCH GIVES HIM COLORFUL TOUCH

FEELS LIKE TO SEE BIG FIGHTS GO OVER

By JACK CONWAY.

"Why do so many fans want to see Hambone Kelly battle Robinson at the Boston Arena Friday night?"

The answer to your question is rather simple.

Hambone can punch.

Hambone is one of the world's leading middleweights.

There you have it.

Charlie White Chicago lightweight, was one of the most popular ring men to ever live in Boston. All because he could knock 'em for a block of gold.

White wrecked the New England lightweight division back in 1915. A left hook to the jaw and a right hand smash to the body and it was all over. Jack Dempsey took him in whatever they allow him to fight because he was quick and in the ring he was impressive.

There is a thrill in a knockout which you don't get when two fast, clever boxers are in action.

Of course everybody likes to see the best of the best perform. But when you have a puncher in the ring, the arena is the place.

It was over that John L. Sullivan was one of the most popular of champions. He could punch when was it not for him?

MRS. CARUSO TO FIGHT DAD'S WILL

FAMILY MEETING CALLED

George Adopted His Daughter With Influencing Father to Leave Fortune to Her

New York, Aug. 30.—The children of Frank Benjamin, with the exception of Mrs. Enrico Caruso, who is in Italy, will convene here this week to decide whether to attempt an upset of his will of their father, which cut them off with $1 each and denounced as having "acted like so many children than parasites."

Mrs. Caruso in accord.

Mrs. Caruso, who went against the wishes of her father in marrying the famous tenor in 1915, will return here next month from Italy, where she is in accord with her brothers and sisters in their attitude toward the father's will, it was said.

It is to Mrs. Caruso's former companion and governess that most of the father's estate, estimated to exceed $100,000, would eventually go under the terms of his will. The former governess, Anna Bolchini Beniamin, was adopted as a daughter by Mr. Benjamin in 1915, and his will, spread upon the public records yesterday, says she had given him the final decision denied him by his own children.

The father's adoption of Anna Bolchini, described as a young woman of striking appearance with black hair and an olive complexion, was said to have been the cause of the estrangement of Mr. Benjamin and his children.

WAS COMPANION.

Mrs. Bolchini, it was said, came to the Benjamin home as a companion for Miss Dorothy Benjamin, now Mrs. Caruso, and in the succeeding years the friendship between Mrs. Benjamin and Miss Bolchini was exceedingly close.

The heirs, it was reported today, would take the position that by virtue of such friendship she was able to exercise an influence over Mr. Benjamin which militated against his children.

GERMANY PLANS CLOTHES AFIRE, SOUP KITCHENS, WEAKER BEER

Berlin, Aug. 30 (By the Associated Press).—Prohibition of the manufacture of strong beer is under consideration by the German government owing to the unsatisfactory condition of the grain crop. Minister of Food Fehr told the economic committee of the Reichstag.

It would be necessary to increase the price of bread considerably after October 15 owing to the depreciation of the mark. The potato crop is satisfactory, he said.

Measures are under consideration to prohibit the manufacture of sweets, liquors and sweetened wines from home-grown sugar.

Minister Fehr said the government would have to consider the requirements of the needy by means of popular kitchens. He said the use of fruit for the manufacture of alcohol would be prohibited, and "reclamations" in restaurants would be punished by making it a penal offense for restaurants to give more than one toast course.

JEALOUSY LED TO KILLING OF BERGEN

New York, Aug. 30 (By International News Service).—The fate of George A. Kline, who is in jail at Hackensack, N. J., charged with the murder of John Bergen, an actor, because of Bergen's attention to Mrs. Kline, will rest largely in the hands of women, according to indications today.

Mrs. Kline, the wife, says she will stick to her husband to the bitter end. Mrs. Mary Bergen, widow of the dead actor, has offered to testify for Kline.

Miss Alice Thornton, nineteen-year-old movie actress, however, may prove the star witness, for it was her revelations to Kline that led to the tragedy.

In addition, there is a disposition on the part of counsel for the defense to get at many women on the jury as possible. Prosecuting Attorney A. C. Hart will set up the contention that the shooting in the Kline home at Edgewater on Friday night was premeditated and done "in cold blood."

JEALOUSY, TOLD ALL

While Miss Thornton's story is dramatic that the shooting may have been planned as early as July, the real source of her the day's occurrence is held in the hushed corridor of the Kline home. Kline's attorney hopes to show by the ball's course that the shooting was in self defense.

"A fit of jealousy, I guess, caused me to tell Kline," said Miss Thornton, to whom Bergen had been paying marked attention prior to his death. She continued:

"One evening, early in July, Charlie Scullion, Mrs. Kline's brother, who lives with the Klines, asked me to Port Lee to a dance. We went to a place in Palmdale avenue—Mr. and Mrs. Kline, Charlie and myself. While Mr. Kline and I were dancing he asked me how Jack and I were getting on."

"I told Mr. Kline that I did not care much for Jack any more. He immediately began to sing Jack's praises."

Miss Thornton said that she then told Kline: "You may think he is a fine, honorable fellow, but he is not. I saw him kissing your wife."

"Then I told him of an incident I had witnessed in his own home a month before. He took it very calmly—a calmly that I wondered whether he believed me. Looking back now, it seems that Mr. Kline must have begun his investigations right away."

TWO KILLED IN WILD BOOZE FIGHT

Chicago, Aug. 30.—One man was shot to death, another was seriously killed, and a police sergeant and an alderman's brother were reported wounded in a furious bar fight in a lonely room today, twenty miles north of Chicago, when pirates tried to hold up a gang of alleged beer runners. The dead man is Albert Schultz, schoolteacher. The police sergeant is Edward McAvoy, who is expected to die. The police sergeant, it is said, accompanied the beer runners. Chief of Police Pitarovitch has ordered a rigid investigation of the charges that the police sergeant was "hand in hand" with the beer runners.

FURNITURE OFF TO WRONG PLACE WEDDING OFF

A tale more pathetic than that of waiting at the church was told today when Gerardo Forti, No. 14 Charles street, William, hailed Samuel Romano, No. 81 Leavitt street, West End, into court, charging him with larceny of $1,400.

Romano was arrested by Patrolman John J. Tessera and William McDonald on an indictment—warrant at No. 81 Leavitt street.

Enter the girl in the case, Rosina Botini, whom Forti met on July 16, 1921.

Love at first sight followed, and before the last glint of silver had fled from the moon that night, Rosina had faithfully promised to marry Forti, on July 25.

Forti journeyed to the bank, withdrew $1,400 for furniture, bought it, and ordered it sent to the Waltham address. Romano posted as Botini's brother-in-law in this transaction.

When the night of the 25th arrived, and the guests were striding in, and others were leaning on tall tankards of rich Italian wine, when the music was playing Forti drummed lightly on the doorpost, and he stood waiting for Rosina. He did not even think of the furniture, but neither bride nor groom showed up. When the wine was gone, the guests departed.

Later in the West End, Forti located Botini in company of Romano, to whose address the girl had the furniture moved. Forti had a warrant sworn out on the girl.
